DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-3, 7, 12 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Baumgartner et al.

Regarding claims 1 and 12, Baumgartner et al teaches a remotely controlled vehicle system comprising a remote control signal transmitter (16), a master model vehicle (10) and at least one slave model (20).

Regarding claim 2, Baumgartner further teaches the at least one slave model is oriented in a formation with the master model vehicle (p. 2, lines 12-14).

Regarding claim 3, Baumgartner further teaches the formation is selectively adjustable by the remote transmitter (p.2, lines 12-14).

Regarding claims 7 and 15, Baumgartner further teaches the master and at least one slave model vehicle is a car (fig. 1).

Regarding claim 15, the examiner takes the position that the at least one secondary vehicle and the remote controlled vehicle generally have the same shape and appearance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4, 6, 8-11, 13 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Baumgartner et al in view of Greenley.

Baumgartner teaches in the figures most of the claimed elements of the invention. However, Baumgartner fails to teach at least one linkage and multiple slave model vehicles. Greenley teaches in the figures a control system for vehicles having linkages 3,4 to connect the cars when traveling. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to connect a linkage as taught by Greenley to the master and at least one slave model vehicle of Baumgartner for the purpose of having the vehicle travel in a straight course.

Further, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have multiple slave model vehicles, since it has been held that mere duplication of the essential working parts of a device involves only routine skill in the art. St. Regis Paper Co. v. Bemis Co., 193 USPQ8.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 4 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Norman et al teaches a system and method for managing and controlling a robot competition. Young teaches a control for model vehicles on a track.
